To Whom It May Concern

RE: Pearce, Emily Margaret
DOB: 06/25/1996

To Whom It May Concern,

Emily Pearce is a 16-year old patient, seen in our office. She has Down syndrome.

Children with Down syndrome have a 14 times greater risk of being diagnosed with leukemia as compared to the general population.

Several studies have shown a weak link to electromagnetic fields and the diagnosis of childhood leukemia. Due to Emily's increased risk for leukemia and possible linkage of electromagnetic fields to leukemia, mother is concerned that a transmission line in their yard would put Emily at even greater risk.

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to call us.

For purposes of privacy compliance, this document is released to the patient's parent/guardian for review, approval, and forwarding to the intended receiver.

Sincerely,

Valerie Klunick, R.N., M.S., C.P.N.P.
